

SCHNEIDER GROUP:Russia Restricts Entrance of Foreigners Due to Quarantine

From March 18 until May 1, Russia has banned the entrance of foreign citizens. Additionally, Russian state authorities have temporarily suspended issuing visas, work permits and their prolongation. This restriction is applied as one of the measures to curb the coronavirus outbreak.

This means, foreign citizens also with a valid working permit or visa (without permanent residence permit “Vid na zhitelstvo”) will also be restricted from entering the Russian Federation.

Some foreigners, however, are exempt – the measures do not apply to diplomats, cargo and plane crew members, and other categories of citizens.
