

Alex Stolarsky, Director for Legal, Compliance and Tax at SCHNEIDER GROUP, speaks about new registration rules. As many of you know, before it was possible to register foreign citizens at the legal address of employer's company. This was common practice and the employer basically took care of all the formalities to properly register its foreign employee.

Now, however, a foreigner has to be registered at the factual place of residence, which can cause some difficulties.

Click on the video and learn more about what has changed in the registration rules in Russia.
